

Professor of Human Nutrition

Department of Agroindustry
Valle del Yeguaré, Honduras

Join an Institution that Educates Leaders to Change the World

At Zamorano, we believe education transforms lives, territories, and food systems. For more than 80 years, our mission has been to educate professionals grounded in academic excellence, ethics, and a strong commitment to sustainable development in Latin America and beyond.

We are currently seeking to welcome a Professor of Human Nutrition to our academic community, an individual with a global perspective, a strong vocation for teaching, and a passion for applied research and experiential learning.

Your Impact at Zamorano

As a member of our faculty, you will have the opportunity to:

- Inspire and educate undergraduate and graduate students in Human Nutrition within a multicultural, hands-on learning environment.
- Design and deliver innovative courses in both in-person and virtual formats, aligned with Zamorano's learning-by-doing educational model.
- Conduct internationally relevant research in human nutrition and health, generating meaningful impact on communities and production systems.
- Build and strengthen academic, scientific, and industry partnerships at regional and global levels.
- Mentor and advise students in research projects, theses, and experiential learning initiatives.
- Actively contribute to university life, curriculum development, and strategic institutional initiatives.

Research, Outreach, and Global Collaboration

We expect the selected faculty member to:

- Develop a robust program of research, outreach, and engagement in human nutrition.
- Secure external funding and publish in peer-reviewed scientific journals.
- Present research findings at international conferences.
- Collaborate with interdisciplinary colleagues to advance sustainable solutions in nutrition and global health.
- Occasionally participate in international research projects and academic supervision activities.

Required Qualifications

- PhD (or equivalent, such as DSc) in Human Nutrition or a closely related field.
- Demonstrated proficiency in both Spanish and English, written and spoken.
- Strong interest and commitment to university-level teaching at both undergraduate and graduate levels.
- Demonstrated ability—or strong potential—to conduct research, secure external funding, and publish scholarly work.
- Excellent communication skills, collaborative mindset, and a student-centered approach.

Preferred Qualifications

- A record of excellence in teaching and research appropriate to career stage.
- Experience in international human nutrition and health initiatives.
- Previous collaboration with industry, the public sector, or international organizations.
- An innovative, multidisciplinary approach to teaching and learning.

Why Zamorano?

- A diverse and international academic community
- A practical, transformative educational model
- A unique residential campus surrounded by nature
- Real opportunities for regional and global impact
- Competitive salary and employment conditions, commensurate with experience and qualifications

How to Apply

Interested candidates should submit the following:

1. Cover letter describing motivation and alignment with the position.
2. Updated resume, including at least three professional references.
3. Teaching philosophy statement outlining pedagogical approach and future development.

Please send all application materials to: talentohumano@zamorano.edu

Subject line: Professor of Human Nutrition

Application deadline: March 15, 2026

Non-Discrimination Policy

Zamorano University does not discriminate based on ethnicity, race, religion, gender, or nationality in the administration of its educational policies, admissions, financial aid programs, employment practices, or other institutional activities.